

What is Students for Partners In Health Canada (SPIHC)?

Organize With SPIHC

SPIHC is how we encourage students in local communities to organize toward building a global movement for the right to health.

SPIHC Chapters support the mission and values of Partners In Health Canada through activities related to advocacy, fundraising, education, and community building.

8+ years in operation

100+ dedicated members across Canada

20+ teams

Countless supporters!

We...

Organize

by building dedicated, well-resourced teams and by fostering alliances with groups who share our vision

Educate

by hosting discussion groups and public lectures about the right to health

Advocate

for global and domestic policies that further the right to health

Generate

resources to fund high-quality healthcare for people living in poverty

Advocacy

Promoting and codifying the global right to health requires targeted political action.

We meet with local and national government leaders to share lessons, stories, and positive results from PIH sites to champion legislation that eliminates barriers to care.

In doing so, we advocate for the radical notion that people living in poverty deserve preferential access to high-quality care.

2

Community Building

Understanding that the systemic inequities that lead to poor health outcomes in impoverished countries is an essential component of SPIHC.

Through curricula, webinars, discussions and events, we raise awareness of the forces that prevent global health equity and highlight the links between poverty and poor health.

The Three Pillars

3

Fundraising

We plan and host fundraising events and campaigns that ensure PIH continues to have the resources to prevent senseless deaths and deliver high-quality healthcare in some of the world's poorest places.

Through our educational efforts and outreach with our PIH Engage community, we're not only fundraising- we are also radically reimagining how wealth and health care access are understood.
